Rock-Paper-Scissors Game

A special 3D depth camera enables users to play the rock-paper-scissors game against an animated virtual monkey, named Moogi. The depth camera detects the gesture made by the user, and determines the winner of the game. This is a fun application on a computer, but imagine you can use hand gestures to control TVs, tablets but also cars and other „devices" with built in computing capabilities in the future...