Video Special Effects

Today's video conferencing experience

Tomorrow's video conferencing experience with 3D camera

With high resolution 3D depth cameras, it will soon be possible to have the background removed from video conferences or video blogs like in professional blue or green box studios. Users will have the choice to decide what background they prefer. It might be the single-colored studio background, an image you took or even a video running in the background.